About the Brand

Diagonal is a design and R&D brand that shapes fashion trends. In addition, we carry out the production of the products you wish to have manufactured with our own team, starting from fabric and accessory sourcing, continuing through modern production processes, and completing the process with quality control and delivery.

Design and Production Vision

Fabric and accessory diversity at Diagonal spans a wide range, including rare and distinctive types that are uncommon in the industry. We continuously follow new trends, styles, and models from around the world, developing and refining them by synthesizing them with our own design approach. With an open and innovative mindset, we combine modern production practices with a vision that shapes fashion.

Integrated Production

All stages of our products, from design to production, are carried out in-house by our professional team. Every step, from fabric and accessory selection to pattern making, production, and final quality control, is carefully managed under one roof. This integrated structure ensures consistent quality standards and guarantees attention to detail in every product.

Collection Strength

Our broad product range offers rich diversity, spanning from jackets and dresses to skirts, trousers, and special design pieces. The fabrics and accessories used in our products are selected from a strong archive that includes rare and distinctive types within the industry. By combining styles inspired by different fashion capitals around the world with our own design philosophy, we create original and modern collections. This creative strength born from diversity forms the foundation of our innovative, fashion-driven vision.
